JACKSONVILLE, Fla. 1Sept. 20 .- The moisture in the earth has been pretty thoroughly absorbed by the sun of the past three days. and nature, at least, looks more hopeful for this city.

At noon to-day only twenty new cases and two deaths had been reported by the yellowfever physician.

"Only twenty!" But there were 130 cases, all told, on Wednesday, and twenty seems a small number for half a day now.

But the yellow-fever scare has spread all over this State, and, indeed, the panic has apread to almost every city in the South.
Every day we receive notice that some new town has quarantined against us, and many localities have placed an embargo against all

Floridians.

Arrangements have been completed though so that we can get out of town by water, and those who desire can get away to points which have not quarantined against us.

These points are pretty well north, and, of course, are safer for refuge for our people.

Direct communication will be had with New York.

York.

A volunteer guard of 200 men is posted all around Ocala, where the people are in a panic over the appearance of the fever in Gainsville, though the disease has not spread beyond the four guardsmen who contracted it at Fernandina.

Fernandina still insists that she is free from Yellow Jack, though Dr. Julius Wise, sent there to investigate, finds four cases.

Forty-one persons are sick at McClenny, five having come down during the past forty-eight hours.

Augustine is free from yellow fever,

St. Augustine is free from yellow fever, and has prohibited the entrance of anything from Jacksonvills. Even the mails are disinfected before they enter the city.

A Duval County sanitary committee has been appointed to see that proper sanitary conditions are had in the outlying towns. The eight examining physicians declare that there is no yellow fever in South Jacksonwilla ville.

Efforts are being made to give the men who are now charges on the city employment, but these efforts are being resisted by the idle.

They have degenerated into paupers already, and refuse to work. As long as they can get free rations they will not work.

$9,200 FOR FREE LECTURES.

The Board of Education Agrees to Its

After President Simmons had put this matter before the Board, there was a considerable discussion of points connected with the employment of lecturers, the means of illustrating the discourses and the times at which lactures should oacur.

Commissioner Wood spoke strongly of the necessity of illustrating the lectures by means of stereopticons and chemical experiments.

Commissioner O'Brien said: "I have got a list of professors desirous of giving the lectures who rank as high as any in the world. The lectures will be illustrated. Some of these lecturers have volunteered their services, others have presented theirs for a compensation. When an appropriation is asked from the surplus for as worthy an object as this. I should not think there could be any question of the propriety of such an appropriation. We intend to select such acknowledge and the wards as will be filled by a good audience, who will profit by this educational pleasure."

A resolution by Commissioner Seligman to formulate a plan to be handed to the Board of Education on which to base the lectures, of Education on which to base the lectures, was opposed by Commissioner Guggenheimer on the ground that in June the committee, consisting of Guggenheimer, O'Brien and Dodge, had already been given that absolute power and that the resolution was not in order from the fact that the old resolution was never rescribed or reconsidered.

MISS M'TAVISH TO MARKY NORPOLK.

England's Greatest Duke and Baltimere' Beautiful and Wenithy Belle Engaged. INPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 20.—The announcement of Miss Virginia McTavish's engagement to the Duke of Norfolk has thrown Baltimore society into a flutter of excitement. Cable. grams received here to-day verify the reports irculated yesterday.

Miss Virginia McTavish is tall, stately and blonds. She is a leading society belle in Baltimore and New York, but is not popular because of her excessive hauteur. She is a daughter of Charles Carroll McTavish, a lineal descendant of Charles Carroll, of Carrollon, and her mother was a Miss Scott. a daughter of Gen. Winfield Scott. She is considered the finest horsewoman in America, and on her imported Irish hunter frequently rides ahead of all the male members of the Elkridge, Rockaway and Cedarhurst hunts. Two of her sisters have retired to convents. The elder, Miss Emily, took the visitation veil at Mount Desailles and gave her forume to the Church, The younger one became a Carmelite nun. She is just the one of all the rich and pretty

She is just the one of all the rich and pretty women of Baltimore who would appreciate and do justice to the position and title of Duchess of Norfolk.

An aunt of Miss McTavish married the first and last Marquis of Wellealey, for some time Governor-General of India. He was the elder brother of the great Duke of Wellington.

None of the family in Maryland, Virginia or New York had the faintest idea of the matrimonial intentions of their cousin nor of or New York had the faintest idea of the matrimonial intentions of their cousin nor of the distinguished connection that awaited them. Indeed, it was reported not long ago by those who pretend to keep au courant with the movements and plans of the British nobility that a marriage had been arranged between the Duke of Norfolk and a young Englishwoman of rank.

THE DUKE OF NORFOLK.

Henri Fitz-Alan-Howard, Knight of the Garter, fifteenth Duke of Norfolk, Earl of Arundel, of Surrey, and Lord of a dozen more dignities, including that of hereditary Farl Marshal of the English realm, is the first and greatest of all England's nobles. He is the premier Duke and premier Earl of the Kingdom, both of these titles dating from 1483, and he takes rank and precedence before all other nobles of Great Britain and immediately after peers of the reigning house or dukes of the blood roval. He is a Roman Catholic in religion, his illustrious ancestors having always clung to the trious ancestors having always clung to the old Church, and his only public duries have been on matters connected with Papal affairs. He was recently sent as the Queen's representative to the Vatican to congratulate Pope Leo on his jubilee, and on that occasion he handed His Holineas a check for many thousands and the latest and the l sands of dollars as his own personal dona-tion.

The Duke is a widower. He married in

The Duke is a widower. He married in 1877 Lady Flora Hastings, daughter of the Countess of Loudoun and nice of the unfortunate Marquis of Hastings, who died bankrupt and broken hearted in 1868, the last of his race. In this connection it is interesting to add that Lady Loudoun inherited the only one of her brother's (Lord Hastings) [twelve earldoms which could be inherited by a woman, and thus became a peeress in her own right, She died some few years after her daughter became a duchess, and in her will left directions that her body was to be buried in the family yault, but that her right hand was to be detached from her body and buried in a certain favorite spot on one of her Sootch tain favorite spot on one of her Scotch tain favorite spot on one of her Scotch estates.

Prior to Lady Flora Hastings's marriage to the Duke of Norfolk she became a convert to Romanism, and was apparently as devoted to Rome asher husband. A son was given them in 1879, the present Earl of Arundel and Surrey, but to the great grief of his parents he was born blind and deaf and has since developed signs of imbecility. He is not likely to attain manhood, so that the second marriage of his father will, perhaps, provide the heir to the titles and estates. Flora, Duchess of Norfolk, died two or three years ago.

The Duke of Norfolk is rich even for an English Duke. He has a splendid mansion in the heart of London and one of the most beautiful domains in Sussex as his principal country seat. Arundel Castle dates from the days of King Alfred, and a fireplace is shown in one of the old towers where the Saxon monarch is supposed to have warmed his limbs. The successive Dukes have of course restored the eastle from time to time, and the present palace. wing, built by the thirteenth Duke, is a beautiful and picturesque structure. In the grounds is a long walled inclosure called the Duchesa's Kitchen Garden, where the uresent Duke's grandmother indulged in her hobby of cultivating vegetables. Near to the great gates of the grounds is a magnificent Gothic cathedral, built a dozen years ago entirely at the Duke's expense and presented to the Catholic Church, and beneath the grand altar lie the ashes of his young widow.

As for the Duke personally, it may be said that he is a man of pre-eminent virtue and a most worthy exponent of the motto "Noblesse oblige." He is a patron of arts and letters, a breeder of fine stock, a promoter of agriculture, a generous landlord and liberal in every way with his wealth. In appearance he is somewhat short in stature, with a full beard and unpronounced features, His one little peculiarity is his partiality to shabby tall hats. The Duke of Norfolk is rich even for an

AFTER THE BRIDGE LIGHTS.

VOICE FROM THE GOVERNMENT SAYS THAT THEY MUST CHANGE.

The Glare Must Be Kept from the River, and the Lighthouse Board Kindly Suggests a Way to Do It-No Formal Notice Yet Received by the Bridge Trustees and No

United States District-Attorney Walker as been ordered by Acting Attorney-General Maury to proceed against the Brooklyn Bridge Trustees to compel them to comply with the law relative to the lighting of bridges over navigable rivers, and the question " Must the bridge lights go ?" is pressing itself upon the attention of the trustees and the interested public for answer.

Supt. C. C. Martin said to-day: "We shall not enter into any contest with the Lighthouse Board. They unquestionably have authority to regulate the lights on the main span of the bridge, from shore to shore. That s to say, practically between the main piers.

"There are several ways suggested for a compliance with the law. Colored globes would undoubtedly remedy the difficulty, or ground glass opaque globes, or percelain riobes. But either of these remedies would reduce the light on the bridge fully one half, and we feel that there is none too much light now for the safety of foot passmuch light now for the safety of foot passengers and those in vehicles on the bridge, and for public morality. The Lightheuse Board has submitted a plan of its own, which will probably be adopted, though it is an elaborate one.

"The complaint is that the lights shed a glaring light on the river, except directly under the bridge, where the effect is worse than ordinary darkness in contrast.

"They propose a system of screens and reflectors, so arranged on the river side of both rows of lights that no light will reach the water, while it will be all concentrated on the promenade and roadways.

"It must be remembered that the carbons burn, and as they burn the upper one drops burn, and as they burn the upper one drops down to meet the other. By this process the centre of the light drops six inches every five hours, which is the length of the life of a pair of carbons. Each globe has two carbons, and when the first has burned down its six inches, it works a spring which sets the other going.

Now the reflectors must be so made that "Now the reflectors must be so made that they disseminate the light at any stage of the burning, so that it forms a nice study how to construct a perfect reflector for the lights.

"There are sixteen lights on the main span between the piers, and only half of these could be seen in either direction, up or down the river.

could be seen in either direction, up or down the river.

Nothing will be done by us, probably,
until the next meeting of the trustees, Oct. 8.
We have as yet received no official notice of the action of the Attorney-General, and I can not say what the red and green light regulation is: but whatever it is we shall comply with it. The whole is a perplexing question and, we think, one which has been raised unnecessarily."

A STATE TICKET, OR NOT?

The Question Was Still Undecided When the United Labor Convention Adjourned.

The United Labor Party's State Convention listened to a speech from temporary Chairman McParlin, of Lockport, and then selected a permanent chairman last night in the person of John J. Clancy, of Kings

Bernard J. Hawkes, of Typographical Union No. 6. and Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, presented resolutions recom-mending the amendment of the Conspiracy laws, as suggested by the Labor Convention people in their struggle for Home Rule, and condemning Postmaster Pearson for evading the eight-hour law recently passed for the benefit of the letter-carriers. These resolutions were adopted.

Then the convention got into confusion over a resolution to have the party place tickets in the field with both the Democratic and Republican electors upon them, and headed by two electors-at-large from the United Labor party. The resolution was adopted after much talk and a savage attack by Delegate Delaney.

The party's platform as adopted at Cincin nati was indorsed, and also the further recommend. tions were adopted.

Trusts and the exemption of church property from taxation were condemned.

Delegate Daniel O'Dair, of the Twenty-second Assembly District, brought forward the all-absorbing question by moving that the convention should not nominate a State ticket.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20. - The several societies of specialists constituting the Congress of American Physicians and Surgeons held meetings yesterday and discussed subjects of special interest to the profession. An interesting paper was read by Dr. Paul H. Kretgschmar, of Brooklyn, N. Y., on "The Great Value of Sanitoria for the Treatment of Consumptives." He dwelt at length upon the importance of sending patients to properly conducted institutions instead of simply allowing them to go to some summer hotel. He called attention to the fact that the greatest caution must be used in the application of so simple a remedy as "open sir," and he recommended letting patients rest on steamer chairs or lounges for hours daily in the sir. He called this method taking "an air bath." In the evening the congress held its second general session, the topic being "Cerebral Localization in its Practical Relations." profession. ARCHBISHOP CORRIGAN HONORED BY ALL THE CLERGY IN THE CATHEDRAL.

His Twenty-Fifth Year in the Priestheor Fitly Celebrated-Visiting Clergy From All Parts of the Country - High Muon By Vicar - General Donnelly-Eulogy For the Archbishop's Work.

The Silver Jubilee of Archbishop Michael Corrigan took place this morning at St. Patrick's Cathedral with great pomp and magnificence. The huge Cathedral was filled, and chairs were placed in both the middle and side assles for the accommodation of those assembled.

Many of the prominent Catholic laymen from the whole city were present, and with but few exceptions the entire diocesan clergy were present to do honor to their head

With the black soutane of the secular priests were seen the brown of the Franciscans and the black and white of the Dominicans, while Carmelites, Jes-uits, Sisters of Mercy, Sisters of Charity and other religious orders not so well known were represented in the long train which swept from the sacristy at 10.30 and filed into the sanctuary and overflowed into the upper part of the church.

The altar was beautifully decorated with four massive pyramids of pink and white roses, while large palms and decorated plants were in the sanctuary.

The mass was Haydn's No. 16, and was most effectively rendered by the quartet of the cathedral and a largely augmented chorus, all under William Pecher's conluctorship.

In conclusion Fatner Donnelly said:

'May your years be lengthened out until a silver shail have grown into a golden jubilee. May it be yours to do still greater things for the glory of God and the good of Holy Mother Church. Such is the prayer to-day of your faithful priest; and when life is o'er and the victory won may the God whom you have served so well receive you into his eternal tabernacles."

I have read with a great deal of interest the accounts by which one of the reporters of THE EVENING WORLD tried to secure a position, and succeeded only after a seven days' search. As regards the statement which he made, that there must be over one hundred thousand people out of work in this city alone, I can fully agree with him. I have tried myself to procure a situation, but have always been surprised to see the num-have always been surprised to see the number of applicants on the same mission. What are the causes why so many people are out of work? And what can be done to get employment for those who want work? I believe that three-fourths of those idle would be willing to put their hands to any kind of work by which they could earn a living.

Why is it that emigrants that come to this country and are not in Castle Garden any length of time can get a position? Simply because they will work for one-half what an American will work for, which to them is considered large wages.

American will work for, which to them is considered large wages.

Let anybody who is at all interested in this question take the trouble to question people out of work, and they will find that eight out of every ten will say that they can't get work, and that it is the emigration that keeps them out of work. I would like to see this question discussed; also what would be the best way to procure situations for the masses who would work if they could. Shall immigration be stopped? If not, what shall be done?

The City of New York, of the Inman line. started on her second eastern trip at 5 o'clock this morning. She was to have sailed yesterday afternoon, but her machinery was not repaired in time. but her machinery was not repaired in time. An officer of the company denied the rumor that the big steamer had stuck in the mud. He said that the delay was caused by the discovery at the last moment that a cylinder was out of order, and that they had to send to Jersev City to have it repaired.

It is expected that the steamer will make a much faster trip this time than she did on her former trip. She carries ninety cabin passengers, among whom are C. E. Jeanneret, of the Australian Parliament; Dr. Edward Aveling and wife, Prof. and Mrs. Simpson, H. J. Slocum, U. S. N., and Mrs. Jonathan Ingersoll.

She was bound for Sandy Hook, where her owner was to take a prominent part in the annual fall regatta of the New York Yacht Club, which is being sailed to-day for the first time over the "outside" course.

For this reason, as well as the fact that the relative merit and sailing qualities of some of the fastest skimmers in these waters are to be tested for the first time, particular interest centres in the event among yachting enthusiasts, and a day of fine sport is anticipated.

The big fleet of excursion steamers, steam yachts, sailing vessels and tugs to accompany the racers around the course also left the city early this morning with loads of passengers, and it was estimated that the spectators of the contest would number at least three thousand. Several of the yachts anchored at Bay Ridge went down last night to Sandy Hook, with parties of jolly yachtsmen aboard, so as to be on hand early this morning and in readiness for the race, which was started at 11.30 o'clock.

Considerable disappointment was expressed this morning because the prospect of a good sailing heaver was not mora favorable but

Considerable disappointment was expressed this morning because the prospect of a good sailing breeze was not more favorable, but knowing ones predicted that, though the wind hereabouts might be light, it would be found that there was enough outside to make things lively and insure a good race.

It was also a matter of comment that so few yachts had entered for the contest the number of entries at the close yesterday, being only ten. As they included, however, some of the crack yachts of the club, this fact did not interfere with the prospect of good sport. The entries were as follows:

FIRST-CLASS SCHOOMERS.

FIRST-CLASS SCHOONERS. THIRD-CLASS SCHOONERS. 12. Grayling ... L. A. Fish.
89. Magic ... Thornton N. Motley.
15. Troubadour ... Lucius H. Smith. SI. Kathrina. Auchinciess Bres.

classes, and the time of each yacht will be taken as it crosses the line.

The principal race of the day will be between the sloops Kathrina and Shamrock, the former being the best effort of its designer, Mr. Cary Smith, while the latter is the Corinthian design of its owner, J. Rogers Maxwell. The relative merits of the two models have never yet been fairly tested, but it the breaze is good to-day there will be no difficulty in setting a question over which there has been no little controversy in yachting circles for some time past.

The course, as will be seen, furnishes a triangular course under the most favorable conditions as regards tides and gives opportunity for windward work, a reach and a run, provided the wind does not shift during the race. Sampy Hook, 10.30.—A fog and a calm prevailed in the earlier morning, but at 9.30 o'clock the sun stole out and drove the fog away.
